

F.D.R. Calls Key Congressmen to Aid Bill Parley

Those Who Will Handle Billions Meet at White House With the President

Message Is Due

Roosevelt Will Request Appropriations and Authorizations

Washington, March 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, congressional authorities disclosed today, will ask Congress for a $7,000,000,000 appropriation to carry out the British aid program under legislation which he is expected to sign late today or tomorrow.

The Chief Executive probably will request that sum in a message to Congress tomorrow. He disclosed his intention to ask for the huge sum at a conference attended by members of the Senate and House appropriations committees and other legislators.

Chairman Glass (D., Va.) of the Senate appropriations committee made the announcement that Mr. Roosevelt would recommend the appropriation, and he said it would be "all cash."

That would omit any contract authorizations. What specific items the money would be used for was not disclosed, but members of the congressional delegation which called at the White House said it would permit purchase of "all articles authorized in the British aid bill."

Conference Called

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Taking steady strides to set up the machinery for putting the British aid program into operation immediately after the necessary legislation is enacted, President Roosevelt called into conference today key members of Congress who will handle the billions in appropriations to finance the effort.

Final approval of the British aid bill, through House acceptance of minor Senate amendments, was expected in mid-afternoon. The White House said there was an outside possibility that the President would sign the legislation tonight.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said probably Mr. Roosevelt would transmit a message to Congress tomorrow or Thursday requesting appropriations and contract authorizations to start supplying aid to Britain and other nations whose defense is considered important to the defense of this country.

Early said he had no idea of the amounts involved, but it had been reported in congressional quarters that the President's original request might add up to $3,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000.

To lay the groundwork for the submission of financial estimates to the legislators, the Chief Executive invited to the White House for a meeting starting at 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) members of the Senate and House appropriations committees, Budget Director Harold Smith, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House military committee, and Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House naval committee.

Those Invited

The senators included Chairman Glass (D-Va.) of the appropriations committee, and Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) and Adams (D-Colo.).

Also invited were Representatives Woodrum (D-Va.), Cannon (D-Mo.), and Taber (R-N.Y.) of the House deficiency appropriations sub-committee, Chairman Snyder (D-Pa.) of the House military appropriations sub-committee, and Chairman Sugham (D-Nev.) of the House naval appropriations sub-committee.

Following that conference the President scheduled another to discuss administrative plans for handling the British aid program. Those asked to participate included Secretary Stimson, Acting Navy Secretary Forrestal, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, the acting chief of naval operations, Rear Admiral R. E. Ingersoll, Rear Admiral Ben Moreell, chief of the navy bureau of yards and docks; Major General Edmund B. Gregory, the army's quartermaster general, and Budget Director Smith.

The Chief Executive also had on his calling list Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, who was chairman of the war industries board in the last World War. Baruch has been a frequent caller at the White House in the last few weeks and Mr. Roosevelt, officials said, has been asking his advice on the current defense and British aid programs.

Fireside Chat Uncertain

While there has been no decision on whether the President will deliver a fireside chat to the nation on British aid, Early advised reporters not to go too far.

O'Mahoney Suggests New Move

Would Have Government Charter Corporations to Encourage Private Enterprise

Review Is Given

Inquiry Findings Put in Records; Senator Is Ill

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Chartering of national corporations by the federal government as one move in a four-fold effort "to reestablish and encourage free private enterprise" was recommended today by its chairman, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

O'Mahoney was ill today when the time came for the committee's final session. The committee secretary placed in the record a report in which O'Mahoney reviewed its two years and nine months of inquiry into economic ills and declared democracy was endangered by failure of the people to understand and correct "the causes of economic instability." He concluded his 6,000-word statement by proposing:

"National charters for national corporations, in order that these agencies may have a definite and a free place in our economy and local business may be differentiated and protected from national business."

"The effective and thorough enforcement of the anti-trust laws to maintain competition and to prevent all combinations and agreements that destroy business."

"The encouragement of new business and small enterprise by revision of the tax laws for the purpose of encouraging new employment and new industry."

"A national conference called by Congress of the various organizations representative of business, labor, agriculture and consumers to . . . concentrate public thought and action on the (economic) objectives on which there is general agreement."

The committee, created in 1938 at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, and composed of senators, representatives and officials of federal agencies, soon will report to Congress its own set of recommendations and it was expected that they would follow the lines laid down by O'Mahoney.

The chairman said the basic trouble with the nation's economic system was that "business organization has grown to such proportions that neither the people, as individuals, nor through their local governments, are able to cope with it." He added that "even the governments of the states themselves are in truth and in fact submerged by modern business organization."

Poughkeepsie Man Killed

Groton, Conn., March 11 (AP)—Frank Kelly, 50, of 129 South avenue, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a steel worker, accidentally plunged 67 feet to his death today in the Electric Boat Company's shipyard. Fellow employees said Kelly appeared to have slipped from the framework of a storehouse building being constructed here. A brother, Eugene, was working nearby. Survivors include Kelly's widow and two daughters.

Realtors Oppose Bill

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Division of $60,000,000 grade crossing elimination funds to road building was opposed by the State Real Estate Association today as a "subterfuge" to obtain highway money "which the people might not grant if approached directly." Ray Hoffer, executive vice-president, put the association on record on the eve of a public hearing into the diversion proposal, favored by Governor Lehman.

Six Persons Aboard Airliner Are Hurt As Plane Skids on Rain-Soaked Runway

Cincinnati, March 11 (AP)—Six of 11 persons aboard an American airliner were injured, the pilot and a passenger perhaps seriously, when the twin-motored craft landed amid hard rain on the city's airport last night, slipped from a concrete runway into tire-deep mud and rammed a bordering river-dike.

Captain Lester Bryant, 33, Chicago, army-trained "million-mile" with 15 years of flying behind him and Wesley McCleaster of Indianapolis suffered possible skull fractures, cuts and severe bruises.

Bryant and McCleaster were hospitalized along with J. W. McNeil of Evanston, Ill., who complained of a back injury.

The plane, scheduled to leave Chicago at 6:15 p. m. (E.S.T.), arrived over Lunken Airport about 8:30—a half hour late. The accident possibly was caused, First Officer James J. Murray indicated, by "heavy rain that obscured visibility" just after the plane landed.

In the fraction of a second before the ship hit the 25-foot earthen wall, Bryant and Murray, also of Chicago, cut the ignition switch, preventing fire.

Passengers praised conduct of the crew, and one, Fred Nonnemaker, Jr., of Chicago, who holds a private pilot's license, declared: "Bryant and Murray did a beautiful job."

The ship's right motor was torn off and the portside engine embedded in the dike separating the airport from the Little Miami river.

Murray, 24, but a veteran of more than 2,000 flying hours, received shoulder and arm bruises and a deep gash on his right leg.

Besides Bryant and Murray, the crew included Miss Audrey Marquiss of Chicago, stewardess. Examination disclosed that she suffered possible muscle and ligament strains.

Others aboard the plane: Ellis D. Verink, Chicago district manager for the Union Central Life Insurance Co., slight ankle hurts; and Miss Grace Butler, Des Moines, Ia., Ted C. Lemon, W.L. Dunn and George Richardson, all of Chicago, uninjured.

Thailand to Gain 25,000 Square Miles Of Land in Cambodia, Laos Provinces

Peace Pact Is Signed at Tokyo; Boundary Committee to Map New Territory

Tokyo, March 11 (AP)—Thailand and French Indo-China signed today a Japanese-mediated "peace protocol" ending their frontier fight and giving Thailand some, but not all, of the territory she claimed in Cambodia and Laos Provinces.

It was understood Thailand would gain approximately 25,000 square miles of land, although no official figures were available immediately.

The agreement, signed in a ceremony at the official residence of Japanese Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, marked Japan's first successful task of mediation undertaken in her proclaimed role of leader of a sphere of influence in greater East Asia.

The pact provided for a boundary demarcation committee to work out details of a new frontier which would return to Thailand the Pak-Lay district of Laos and one-fourth of Cambodia.

That represented some last-minute concessions by the French, but fell far short of Thailand's original demand for approximately one-third of all Laos and Cambodia Provinces.

The men who signed the pact after 40 days of conference gave little sign of their feelings. None smiled. The French representatives were particularly stern-faced.

Approximately 40 representatives of Indo-China, Thailand and Japan and newspaper men were the only witnesses to the brief, austere ceremony in the Premier's boudoir.

Matsuoka Gives Statement

When the last signature was affixed, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka declared:

"By this signature, friendly relations between France and Thailand have been restored, and a bond of co-existence and co-prosperity between Japan on one side and those two nations on the other has been further cemented, thereby contributing in some measure toward the establishment of peace in greater East Asia and the world."

The foreign minister added:

"This has been due to mutual concession by France and Thailand, which deeply understand the determination and responsibility of the mediating country (Japan) — a fact to be heartily congratulated upon for the sake of mankind."

A Japanese communiqué on terms of the agreement listed these provisions:

France cedes to Thailand the district around the town of Pak-Lay. (This would return to Thailand part of the section on both sides of the Mekong river which has been further cemented, thereby contributing in some measure toward the establishment of peace in greater East Asia and the world.)

After a walkout by 3,500 New York city bus drivers this placard indicating the nearest subway station stood out among signs carried by pickets at this bus stop. The men, members of the C. I. O. Transport Workers' Union, are demanding a uniform 8-hour day, three weeks, and a 25 per cent wage increase for drivers, conductors, mechanics and garage men. More than 800,000 bus riders were forced to find other means of travel as a result of the strike which tied up 27 routes, covering 95 per cent of lines in Manhattan and two in Queens.

Henry Ford Sees Day When Farmer Will 'Grow' Autos

Motor Manufacturer Says His Engineers Are Trying Out Car Chassis Made of Plastics

Ways, Ga., March 11 (AP)—Henry Ford envisions a day "only several years off" when a farmer will grow most of the materials going into his motor car and perhaps provide the fuel from plants as well.

"We'll have an experimental body ready at our plant in a month or so made chiefly of plastics from cellulose fibers easily grown," the Detroit automobile manufacturer said in an interview here today.

"The plastic body will be several pounds lighter, and will be a better body for several reasons," he added.

Ford said the "field of plastics is almost unlimited, and we'll see them used more and more in houses and offices instead of wood."

He displayed some attractive bath and kitchen tiles and what appeared to be silk socks.

"Those tile were made from corn cobs and tree bark right here in our laboratory," Ford asserted. "The socks used to be ordinary sawdust."

He said it was known that, if necessary, "we can produce satisfactory fuels for engines from potatoes, corn, rice and other farm products."

Heading Ford's laboratory at his Georgia plantation is Harry G. Ukkelberg, who worked with the late Thomas A. Edison, one of Ford's intimate friends during his lifetime.

Chemists here are also studying ramie, a fiber from which the ancient Egyptians made fine cloth for wrapping their mummies. An experimental patch indicates that the south Georgia soil and climate are well suited for its growth.

Ford's Georgia chemists also see great possibilities in cottonaria, a common cover crop for poor southern lands. It has been used for both rayon and plastics.

The manufacturer said chemistry would help to renew an interest in agriculture, and he advocated farming for security.

"A farm boy ought to be able to fill his pockets full of seeds and make himself a good living from them," he added.

Officer Is Charged With Earl's Death

Maj. Sir Delves Broughton Held as Slayer of Earl of Errol Jan. 24

London, March 11 (AP)—A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch today from Nairobi, Kenya Colony, said that Major Sir Delves Broughton had been charged formally with murder in the death January 24 of the Earl of Erroll, hereditary high constable of Scotland.

When Lord Erroll was found dead it was first believed he had been killed in an automobile accident.

The dispatch said later it was determined that death was caused by a revolver shot.

"No evidence was called and the case was adjourned to March 19," Reuters said.

At an inquiry February 28, a government pathologist testified that no shots had been fired at the 39-year-old Earl and that he

James V. Halloran, Local Undertaker, Dies of Pneumonia

Lifelong Resident and Was Active in Democratic Party; Funeral Will Be Held Thursday

James V. Halloran, widely known undertaker, with funeral parlors at 44 Broadway, died at 5:30 o'clock this morning in the Benedictine Hospital of pneumonia. Mr. Halloran was a lifelong resident of this city.

Mr. Halloran was a son of the late Daniel and Julia Hamilton Halloran, and received his education in St. Mary's Academy here, and St. Charles College in Maryland. His father was a plumbing contractor with business on East Strand, and had been active in the Democratic party for years.

The son followed in his father's footsteps politically and served the Sixth ward as a Democratic supervisor during 1924-29.

During his early manhood Mr. Halloran was employed as an agent by the Prudential Insurance Company and continued in the employ of the company for approximately 20 years, before he resigned to engage in the undertaking business.

Mr. Halloran had been in the undertaking business for the last 15 years, nine of which were spent at his present location, at 44 Broadway. When he first entered in the business he had his funeral parlors on East Strand, near Hasbrouck avenue.

He was an active member of St. Mary's Church and of the Holy Name Society of the church. Fraternally he was a member of

America Has Intervened on Behalf Of Thousands of Spanish Republicans

Washington, March 11 (AP)—The United States has intervened with the Spanish and Vichy governments, it was learned authoritatively today, on behalf of thousands of Spanish republicans who are prisoners in Spain or political refugees in unoccupied France.

Appeals from Secretary of State Hull to Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco, it was learned, sought clemency for the political prisoners on "humanitarian" grounds after receipt of reports of wholesale executions and crowded prisons in the wake of Spain's bitter civil war.

The friendly request to Franco was disclosed by individual letters from the state department to a number of American citizens interested in the fate of Spaniards who fought vainly to save the Spanish republic.

The state department's letters to inquiring Americans pointed out that since the political prisoners cases involved the treatment by Spain of Spanish nationals the United States could not claim to have a direct interest nor present any legal justification for action by the American government.

"Acting upon the broader grounds of humanity," however, the letters explained, "we have approached the Spanish government with our views on this matter and have expressed the hope that clemency may be exercised in political cases."

The United States government in past years, has made similar humanitarian appeals to European governments on behalf of German and Russian Jews.

The Vichy government in reply to friendly inquiries made through the American embassy, declared that none of the Spanish political refugees who fled to unoccupied France had been turned over to the Franco government.

The Franco government officially announced immediately after assuming power that 1,200,000 "informations" had been filed against republicans charging crimes of all kinds during the days of the Spanish republic.

An estimated 500,000 political prisoners were arrested.

Japanese Say Britain Would Exchange Ships With U.S.; Halifax Denies Story

Council to Meet

Yugoslavs to Decide Whether to Join in Axis

(By The Associated Press)

A high London naval source declared today that Britain wanted all the ships she could get from America and that enough trained British personnel was ready to man the whole United States fleet if it were turned over to Britain for the developing "battle of the Atlantic."

On the diplomatic front, Axis propaganda guns assailed the United States—hinting at trouble in the Pacific—as Japan's Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka prepared to leave the Far East for important talks with Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

The British comment on preparedness to take over the United States Navy was made after questions by American correspondents in London.

So far, however, the British have not officially suggested that United States naval assistance was needed in combating Hitler's sea raiders, and in Washington yesterday British Ambassador Lord Halifax discounted reports that the two countries would exchange naval vessels as part of the British aid program.

A Japanese newspaper published a report that the United States planned to send U. S. destroyers in exchange for British capital ships for use in far eastern waters against Japan.

Halifax said he did not consider such an exchange was likely now or in the future.

Fascist sources in Rome hinted at an impending Japanese move under the Triple Alliance in reaction to the United States' British aid bill.

The Italian newspaper La Tribuna declared bluntly that Matsuoka's trip was "the immediate answer to Washington's threatening move."

"Yesterday America spoke," the newspaper said, evidently referring to Senate passage of the British aid bill Saturday. "Soon Japan will say its word. It is for this that Matsuoka is coming to Berlin and Rome."

Other Capitals' Reaction

Other reaction in Axis capitals included: Berlin: Informed Nazis said Matsuoka's visit was one of a series of counter actions to the United States aid-to-Britain bill. It was regarded as significant that Matsuoka would be accompanied by military experts.

Rome: Italians said Matsuoka would discuss Japan's role under the three-power pact in the event of trouble with the United States over the British aid bill.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, declared "the approach of spring, with its expected offensives, gives Matsuoka's visit exceptional importance."

Only yesterday, Fascist Editor Virginio Gayda, often known as Premier Mussolini's spokesman, threatened "many disagreeable surprises to England and the United States in the Pacific."

The Japanese foreign minister was scheduled to leave Tokyo tomorrow night, traveling via Moscow.

In the Balkan crisis, Yugoslavia's Regent Prince Paul summoned the crown council to meet tomorrow to decide whether Yugoslavia would join the Axis—under a reported demand by Adolf Hitler that she sign as a full-fledged member.

Belgrade sources said yesterday Hitler had refused to accept a mere non-aggression pact with Yugoslavia, and most diplomatic observers in the Balkan capital today predicted the crown council would have no alternative but to yield to Germany.

At sea, the London admiralty acknowledged the heaviest toll of shipping since last October, with the loss of 29 British, Allied and neutral vessels totaling 148,038 tons in the week ended March 2.

"The spring blitz which Hitler promised has begun," a British spokesman said, but he declared that British counter-measures were improving.

The admiralty said that German and Italian claims for the week totaled 432,500 tons—nearly triple the British figure. Weekly losses, excluding the withdrawal from Dunkerque, have averaged 63,342 since the war began.

After long delay, Thailand and French Indo-China signed a Japanese-arranged "peace protocol" ending their frontier conflict and giving Thailand an estimated 25,000 square miles of land.

In a sharply worded majority opinion by Presiding Justice James P. Hill, concurred in by Justices F. Walter Bliss, Gilbert V. Schock, Sydney F. Foster, with Justice Christopher J. Hefferman dissenting, the Appellate Court criticized the Board of Regents and Dr. Ernest E. Cole, State Education Commissioner, for taking the position that the licensing of Dr. Marburg "would affect adversely the fortunes and privileges of the medical profession of this state, because, as the brief states, 'our own citizens are required to spend money and time to secure a complete background of elementary and academic education and long periods in colleges devoted to obtaining technical knowledge concerning the profession.'"

Judge Hill wrote that the statutes "are not intended for the benefit of the members of that guild, but to advance and promote the public welfare through the improvement of the health of our citizens. Except for the latter consideration, it would be in violation of our Constitution to grant to a limited number of persons the privilege to treat human ills in return for a very adequate compensation."

Dr. Marburg had applied twice for indorsement of his Austrian license and it was twice rejected. He sought to secure a license to practice medicine without an examination, and only on indorsement of his Austrian license.

The appeal from Justice Schirick's decision was taken by the State.

Dr. Marburg is a native of Romanstad, Czechoslovakia.

Late Bulletin

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Congress completed action today on the historic British aid bill, just after President Roosevelt set $7,000,000,000 as its starting appropriation.

This round figure, which would be the largest peacetime appropriation ever requested in America's history, was announced by congressional authorities who met with the President in anticipation of his signing the aid legislation late today or tonight.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to request the $7,000,000,000 formally in a special message to Congress tomorrow.

Members of the congressional delegation at the White House said the money would permit purchase of "all articles authorized in the British aid bill." They were not specific.

The two big developments came on a day that in London Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons that American warplanes "will get here in time" for the developing battle of the Atlantic, and another authoritative source said "the spring blitz which Hitler promised has begun."

Testing of public sentiment (2 p. m. EST) on more than a dozen bills designed to regulate installment buying and lower interest rates on small loans.

Legislative approval of a proposed constitutional amendment lengthening the term of senators from two to four years, a measure which will be submitted to the electorate next fall.

Decision by Republican leaders to extend the eight-year old mortgage moratorium law at least another year regardless of the governor's request for "a tapering off."

State Senator Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, appeared for the petitioner, Dr. Marburg and Charles A. Brind for the respondents.

The matter was presented to Justice Schirick, petitioner asking the court for an order directing the respondents to indorse the petitioner's Austrian medical license, or in the alternative, for an order transferring the proceedings to the Appellate Division, Third Department, as provided by law.

This law provides that the Commissioner of Education may in his discretion on the approval of the Board of Regents indorse a license or diploma of a physician of another state, country, etc., provided the applicant has met all the preliminary and professional qualifications required for earning a license on examination in this state, has been in reputable practice for a period of ten years and has reached a position of conceded eminence and authority in his profession.

Members of the two upper grade rooms collaborated in presenting an assembly program celebrating National Bill of Rights Week. The story of the origin of the first United States flag was dramatized and recitations of a patriotic nature given. The program was under the direction of Miss Baumgartner.

The Parent Teachers' Association program of Wednesday will be under the supervision of Mr. Sheeley and the children from his room. The recording recently purchased by the P. T. A. will be transcribed. The topic will be "The Constitution of the United States and the records will be followed by a quiz based upon that topic. Children and parents will participate.

The yearly achievement tests have been given but as yet scores are not available.

As a result of the recent auditor meter hearing tests, it is to be reported that all children tested were found to be normal in hearing ability.

The prints of early American Life given to the school by Mrs. Loughran are being framed and will be hung in the school.

The children wish to thank Mrs. Engles for the books which she recently gave to the rapidly growing school library.

The dance sponsored by the P. T. A. was a success both socially and financially and the school wishes to extend its thanks for the good that will be done with the money earned.

Police Chief Says Butcher Slaying Is Near Solution

Kansas City, March 11 (AP)—Police Chief L. B. Reed said today that the butcher slaying of Leila Adele Welsh, 24, was nearing a solution.

Reed said special investigators were working on the slaying of the girl, who was hammered and slashed to death in her bed during the dark hours of Sunday morning.

Police questioned several suspects. The city council appropriated a $500 reward.

Democrats Attempt Rally to 'Cash In' On G.O.P. Slashes

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Democratic legislative leaders rallied their minority forces today in an effort to make political capital of Republican cuts of $1,270,000 in Governor Lehman's proposed defense funds.

Admittedly unable to prevent outnumbering Republicans from adopting the reduced $384,200,000 state budget tomorrow, Democratic chiefs nevertheless promised the majority party's elimination of preparedness measures would be the target of a bitter attack which they predicted would be supported by "a blast" from the governor.

Majority leaders, meanwhile, determined to counter with claims their third annual reduction in the Democratic executive's budget entitled Republicans to be labelled "The Economy Party."

Nearness of a decision in the budget battle accelerated other legislative developments which included:

Testing of public sentiment (2 p. m. EST) on more than a dozen bills designed to regulate installment buying and lower interest rates on small loans.

Red Cross Gives Needed Supplies In Aiding Greece

New York, March 11 (AP)—The stock market lost some of its rallying steam today and many of Monday's climbers backed into moderately lower ground.

Fractional gains, well distributed at the start, soon were converted into declines here and there. Dealings slackened after a fairly fast forenoon. While quiet strength still was exhibited by assorted favorites, minus signs were in the majority near the final hour.

Transfers were at the rate of approximately 600,000 shares.

The inclination to cash in on Monday's bulge, brokers said, tended to offset to some extent the revival of bullishness over defense spending prospects when the British-aid bill becomes law. Fears of war upsets as spring breaks in Europe and worries over the labor outlook also were thought to have promoted speculative conservatism.

Among commodities, rubber and cocoa futures jumped to new highs for the move, but quotations elsewhere were mixed. Rail loans continued to lean forward in the bond division.

Resistant stocks included American Telephone, U. S. Rubber, Northern Pacific, Glen Martin, J. I. East, North American, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of N. J., du Pont and Johns-Manville.

Off at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, General Electric, Montgomery Ward and Douglas Aircraft.

Supported in the curb were Aluminum of America, which got up about five points; Phoenix Securities, Hazeltine, American Cyanamid B., Pantepec and Bell Aircraft.

Seedsmen Meeting Serious Situation

Hunt for Available Sources of Good Seed

Geneva, N. Y., March 11—What threatened a few months ago to become a serious seed situation in this state is being met in a highly satisfactory manner by reliable seed distributors, according to recent comments on the present status of the seed problem by Prof. M. T. Munn, head of the seed testing laboratory at the Experiment Station here. Professor Munn bases his optimism on information accumulated over 8,000 samples of seeds received in the laboratory during the past six months from seedsmen and seed buyers who are endeavoring to locate the best possible sources of seeds, particularly of those crops which are known to be limited.

"Two things have interfered seriously with the normal supply of seeds which farmers must have to continue normal operations," says Professor Munn. "One of these was the weather last fall which injured certain kinds of seed, principally corn which is going to be badly damaged by frost. The other is the distributed world conditions which have prevented commerce between seed producing countries."

"The large group of reliable seed men are among the most critical buyers of seed and are also very critical of the methods followed by seed growers. They are fully aware of the present situation and are doing everything possible to assemble enough seed of the desired kinds which are very short, such as corn, cabbage, carrot, cauliflower, beet, onion, and radish."

"While there is no occasion for undue excitement or panic, yet all seed buyers should watch the seed situation closely and make certain as early as possible that they either have or can get the very best stocks of the kinds and varieties needed. Special attention should be exercised when buying from an unknown source since test show very definitely that this is a year when much old seed is going to be worked off into unsatisfactory buyers in spite of the fact that there are now quite adequate federal and state seed control laws. Demands for tests show plainly that an increasing number of seed buyers are finding out in advance about available seed stocks as is shown by requests for lists of seed sources, certified seed, and similar assurances of quality."

FOR a world where kings are supposed to be disappearing, a lot of them are still in the thick of important events. Some, like Haakon of Norway and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, have lost their thrones because of the war but hope to get them back. Haakon's brother, Christian of Denmark, still sits on his, but Germany runs the country. George of England, Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Emperor Hirohito of Japan are still working. Here are some other kings and some who claim thrones.

Blocked
Montrose, Pa. — Gene Krupa, snow plow operator, conceded today that if it isn't one thing, it's another.

Krupa had almost cleared a stretch of highway of four-foot drifts when an airplane, out of gas, landed on the road in front of the plow.

The plane blocked the highway for two hours until Krupa and the pilot could get a team of horses to haul it off the road.

Mayor A. B. Cooper had to threaten arrests and make them stop.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

Public Relations Section, New York State Headquarters, Selective Service has issued the following:

Local boards of Selective Service of New York State now are planning to schedule physical examination for students, to be given on the first occasion of each student's return to his home local board area between now and the end of the college year.

The Selective Training and Service Act provided for deferment of all registrants who request it and who were enrolled for the 1940-41 year for substantially full-time attendance at a college or university in a course leading to an undergraduate or advanced degree, the deferment to end with the college year and in no case later than July 1, 1941.

Physical examination of these students was postponed until this Spring because of the possibility of change in the physical condition of the students during the winter. A bulletin issued by New York State Selective Service headquarters to the local boards this week advises that the examinations may now be given at the first opportunity.

It is planned to enable all college students to be inducted as soon as possible after termination of the school year, so that any student will lose a full year of school instead of losing two years of study to do a year's training, as might happen if the inductions were delayed until after the fall term opens.

To make possible their classification without delay at the end of the student deferments, and to avoid having examinations transferred to boards located in college towns which might not be prepared to handle the burden, the state headquarters has asked all boards to arrange now for the examination of their own student registrants. All students holding Selective Service deferment also are requested to contact their local boards to facilitate scheduling of the examinations.

The United States has 92 cities with 100,000 or more residents.

A New And Different Kind Of Car

Alone In Its Class With V-8
Performance!

MERCURY 8
DRIVE IT
50 MILES
THEN DECIDE

MERCURY is the only car in its price class that gives you the fleetness and power of a rugged V-8 engine. That's one reason this big, nimble car gets away faster—and stays out in front! Mercury is built to aircraft principles, with more power per pound than most other cars. Because it has no superfluous weight, Mercury combines brilliant performance with unusual stamina and economy. Owners report up to 20 miles per gallon. Deep-cushioned seats, slow-motion springs and double-acting shock absorbers provide a new high in riding comfort. Balanced weight distribution and new, wider tires give Mercury unusual road-hugging stability.

- MORE POWER PER POUND— Mercury is built to aircraft principles with more power per pound than most other cars—for unusual big-car performance at low cost.
- MORE ROOM— There's plenty of room in Mercury's spacious interiors! Seats are extra-wide so big passengers can stretch, rest and relax in comfort—without crowding.
- MORE RUBBER ON THE ROAD— Mercury's new, larger tires with wider tread put more rubber on the road for added grip in starting and stopping—greater stability on curves.

By NORMAN CHANDLER
Chairman, Newspaper Publishers Committee

NORMAN CHANDLER

A DIRTY, rusty car may run as well and last as long as a clean and shiny one. But it isn't "worth" as much to most of us.

I mention this because I've heard people criticize the brightness and "color" which goes into your newspapers. The color—which is to say the side-lights, the descriptive stories, the pictures—is there because you want it. It helps you to understand and appreciate the news.

However, make no mistake about this: The important thing to you is how real the news underneath is.

When government decides not to give you the actual news, it piles on camouflage to fool you.

I have before me a copy of a Moscow paper containing the story of what was actually a horrible piece of government bungling—according to American observers long trained in reporting the truth. This story is gorgeously "colored." It talks of the great bravery of the Soviet troops, the cruel treachery and bestiality of the "enemy." It claims glorious victory and tells of "rejoicing" that never happened.

I also have here a Nazi account of an event which I witnessed in America. I know there's no grain of truth in it. The story is designed deliberately to mislead.

American newspapers, thank goodness, are designed to inform. True, an imaginative reporter may describe a tenement-doorstep romance as a beautiful and touching scene. He may describe a corner brawl as a threatened riot. But you can bet your last dollar that there was a love scene and that there was a brawl.

The reason is simple. There is no force to make American newspapers describe something which doesn't happen. There is a great force which makes them report what does happen. It is the force of a free public opinion, which in America has the power of life and death over a newspaper.

Consider newspaper advertising also. I have a German newspaper advertisement in my hands which tells readers, very colorfully, that a chemical substitute for sugar is oh-so-good. In America there would be a real sugar advertisement alongside which would knock the phony one into the garbage heap where it belongs.

What makes this difference between our papers and those of totalitarian Europe so important to you?

Just this. As long as you have papers free to tell you the truth, no dictator can seize power, move without your knowledge, mislead you into buying shoddy substitutes.

Give up whatever luxuries these times of crisis demand. But if you ever hope to stay free, hold onto your American-style newspapers!

NOTE: The Newspaper Publishers Committee, composed of over 350 leading American newspapers, publishes these messages simultaneously each week. The force which unites these newspapers is their recognition of their responsibility to you, the reader.

SEND-OFF FOR SOLDIERS

Now about those "draftees" or "selectees" or "trainees" or whatever unpleasant name happens to be applied to them, we just want to pass along some comments from a veteran on the staff of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, addressed to the last batch of young fellows starting off to camp. If it seems sentimental, never mind. It runs like this:

"We were standing last night in the mist and twilight when you marched off into the army, and our hearts well nigh burst within us for love and pride of you. You may not have paraded so smartly. And the bags and bundles you carried were stranger than anyone knows. But you reminded us of ourselves 20 and more years ago. We think we can say that we were not bad citizens, either. We trudged along with the same irregular step, and the same heterogeneous baggage, into the army.

"But as God is our judge, we believe that we thought the same thoughts as you. And so, envying you greatly, and admiring you always, and loving you always, we come, if you will permit, to the second part of our discourse.

"We who wish we were with you can predict with confidence one event which will come your way. When you stand at attention during retreat, shoulder to shoulder with your squad, platoon, company, troop, battalion, regiment, brigade, division or army corps, and the band plays 'The Star-Spangled Banner,' something electrical will go up and down your spine which you never knew before and which is never felt except by armed men, of the land, sea or air forces of their country.

"By a wise provision of nature, this experience has been reserved for thoroughly developed, thoroughly masculine persons. You have got hold of something bigger than yourselves. That is your country.

"You have touched the hem of the garment of truth. Most men go through life without knowing there is such a thing. But since you have found it, and it will grow on you, we venture to welcome you, with reverence, as our successors and betters, into the brotherhood of arms and into the spiritual kinship of heroes. With the inspiration of your example, we shall strive to make our civil society a better place against your return. God bless you, and safe return, soldiers!"

MOUNTAIN MONUMENTS

Gutzon Borglum has proved that bold imagination in carving and building has not vanished from the world. In an age supposedly dull-minded, commercial, and scientific rather than artistic, he has created in the Black Hills of South Dakota a work of art comparable to the Egyptian Pyramids, and likely to last as long.

Future ages may rate it as the greatest monument of our time. We can imagine members of some future civilization standing at the foot of those carved cliffs, as far from us in time as we are from the Greeks who built the Colossus of Rhodes, and saying "There were giants in those days."

The faces of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, recognized as the greatest of our national leaders, look out from that mountain-top at the nation they carved. The face of Theodore Roosevelt, who himself knew and loved those hills, will be completed by Borglum's pupils. Later, no doubt, will appear others judged worthy by new generations.

Those beautiful mountains, with their shadowy forests, their cliffs and waterfalls, rising magically from the plains, will be a Mecca of many generations of Americans. And our people hereafter need not be urged to go and see them. They, like the heroes they represent, are unique.

MORE CHEWING GUM

One great sacrifice has not yet been required of the American people. They are not only not deprived of their chewing gum, but they are getting it in ever larger quantities. A leading company, which supplies most of the world's gum-chewers, says its business outside the Western Hemisphere is below last year's level. Yet it has been doing as well as ever and expects business in the current quarter to be better than in the same period of 1939. Chewers of the U.S.A. enable it to hold up that record.

There are those who maintain that the steady motion of the jaws of chewers relieves nervous tension, aids digestion and is therefore a wholesome practice.

There is a problem here. The nervous tension of non-chewers is often raised to the snapping point by the presence of ranks of moving jaws within their line of vision. The writer has known sensitive creatures who had to close their eyes to end the sight, yet have opened them again, impelled by horrible fascination. Can that be good for their digestions?

Still, this is a democracy and the majority should rule. Furthermore, though habit-forming in a way, chewing gum has never led husbands to beat their wives or to throw away the weekly wages on chicle in any form. Perhaps with real sacrifices in view, this luxury and comfort should remain undisturbed.

It's a serious world, in which even the romance of Carol and Lupescu is less engrossing than it used to be.

According to Mussolini, Italy wasn't ready for this war. Neither were the democracies. But they're catching up now.

Uncle Sam tips his Panama to Panama, as that important little country grants land for air bases.

CONVULSIONS AND DIET

For the past few years many patients suffering with epilepsy have been kept free of attacks by following a diet in which the fat foods are increased and the starch foods decreased. When the diet treatment is not sufficient to prevent attacks, phenobarbital, as prescribed by a physician, will usually do so.

In addition to the increase in fat foods and decrease in starches, the patient is not allowed to drink much water or other liquids, and foods containing much water are also forbidden. This is because it has been found that when the tissues contain much water, the epileptic attacks are most likely to occur.

Some months ago I spoke of experiments in which the patient was given a great amount of water and a drug to prevent this excess later leaving the tissues. With the tissues thus loaded with water, the attacks occurred in cases of true epilepsy. The physician was thus able to tell of the patient was an epileptic or whether the convulsions or attacks were due to some other condition in the brain.

In trying to find the cause of convulsions, in 17 patients, Dr. F. C. DeLeonzo, Newark, N. J., in the Journal of Pediatrics (children's diseases) reports his method of giving the patients a diet of cream and dextrose every six hours, an overabundance of water according to their weight, and a drug—pitressin—to prevent loss of water from the tissues. The treatment was discontinued when convulsions occurred or when the excess water was causing cramps, vomiting, or headache, or when symptoms of poisoning by the pitressin occurred, or when it could plainly be seen that convulsions were not likely to occur from the excess water and pitressin.

With the exception of two, all of the seventeen patients were "positive," that is epileptics, while the convulsions in the other two were due to other causes.

Seventeen normal children were given the test. Not one of these children had an attack of convulsions.

This test thus helps the physician in trying to find the cause of the convulsions, because if it does not bring on an attack, the convulsions are not due to epilepsy but to some other condition resembling epilepsy.

Research work on wood from the forests of South and Central America offers one of the promising approaches toward the strengthening of relations with the Latin American republics, in the opinion of Carlisle P. Winslow, Director of the Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis. A few tropical timbers such as mahogany, Spanish cedar, and several dyewoods have been on the market for many years. In the main, however, North American industry and consumers are not familiar with the wide variety of woods south of the Rio Grande — chiefly hardwoods. We are not aware of what is available, of how they may be used, and which of the woods have valuable properties.

Many of the species do not grow in the United States at all, says Winslow, and research would probably show many of them suitable to certain specialized U. S. needs. Winslow points out that the Forest Service has the experienced research workers who already are equipped to study the utilization of these woods. To expand their possibilities, he says, research is needed to determine for what uses the importation of tropical woods will be most urgently needed in the near future, and which tropical species possess properties that will best fulfill these uses.

'General Strike' Condition Reveals Broad Power of C. I. O. and Many Industries Feel Threat

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 11.—The might of the C. I. O. to bring about the biggest combination of strikes in history—amounting almost to a general strike—within the next 60 days is being slowly revealed.

Whether it is by reason of the economic leverage that a coincidental set of demands may make, or because it just happened that way, critical negotiations with the threat of strikes are shaping up in coal, steel and the automotive industries respectively.

The steel situation involves primarily the renewal of a contract between the C. I. O. and the U. S. Steel Corporation involving some 250,000 men. This will overlap upon efforts of the C. I. O. to secure recognition among the Bethlehem Steel Company and perhaps Republic Steel.

The coal situation dominated by the C. I. O. involves 300,000 workers and negotiations between soft-coal operators and the union leaders have begun already.

The automotive situation involves both General Motors and Ford. In the former are 150,000 workers, and about 95,000 in the latter.

Now there is no evidence of any intention on the part of the C. I. O. to tie up all these industries at one time, but it is significant that the steel contract was terminated with due notice this month when it could have run on. Likewise there was no special reason for bringing the Ford situation to a head just about the time the General Motors negotiations were to begin.

The C. I. O. this time wants not merely recognition for its members in the steel industry, but the rights as sole bargaining agent for all employees of the U. S. Steel Corporation. It is not yet clear what the demands are to be on the Jones & Laughlin and Crucible Steel plants.

There has been talk of a demand for the check-off in steel as in coal. But it is also asserted that the C. I. O. will be content with some system of permitting shop stewards to collect dues on plant property. Also the main issue will be wage increases in case of U. S. Steel and sole bargaining rights in the case of Republic Steel and Bethlehem.

The threat of a strike in the Ford plants has already been recorded with the state mediation board in Michigan. There a conflict between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. has been going on, both sides claiming a majority and sole bargaining rights. The greatest movement without intervening much more actively in the situation than the administration has in the last several months.

While there has been a tendency here to minimize the amount of labor strife in defense industries, it is frankly recognized that every day the capacity of the union leaders to bring about interruptions and work stoppages is increased as the amount of defense work is piled up.

Critical Stage

The situation is not going to be resolved by legislation to prohibit strikes. The drive for recognition as bargaining agents and for increases in wages coincides with the increase in employment and

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Thought-for-Today Dep't.—According to the Treasury Department the government has just completed transfer of nine billion dollars in gold from the Asay Office in New York City to the "hole in the ground" at Fort Knox, Ky.

This latest transfer took eight months. The gold was shipped by registered mail in 45 trains consisting of 337 cars. Thirty-four Army engineers, accompanied by the Mint guards, accompanied every train. The gold is in the form of standard gold bricks (mint bars) which are just a little smaller than standard building bricks. However, that doesn't make them good for use as "Irish confetti," because each brick weighs 27½ pounds—and besides who would be tossing money like that around. Completion of this latest transfer brings the total of gold buried in the vaults of Fort Knox to $14,579,591,382.22.

What gives Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's announcement its "thoughtful twist" is that just when these trains were pulling out of Pennsylvania station in New York under a blanket of great secrecy, Mr. William D. Coolidge, General Electric's director of research was writing an article for a national magazine (American magazine). He was talking about the ways young people of today might make fame and fortune. Doctor Coolidge said: "I've been wondering what we should do if our immense hoard of gold becomes valueless, as some economists predict. Gold, is of little practical good. Some day we may have to take it back to the laboratory and work out some useful, menial task for it. The man who discovers what to do with gold may make a fortune."

What We're Reading
 There is food for sermons in the Census Bureau's latest survey of the book publishing field.

Not only is the Bible still America's best seller, year after year, but the Bible business is booming as it never has before. The total output of Bibles, Testaments and parts of the Bible published in 1939 totaled 7,275,848—nearly two and a half million more than in 1937. The number of whole Bibles published was 2,348,069, with separately published Testaments amounting to 1,268,614. Compare this with earlier years when the census takers dipped into the publishing business. In 1935, there were 591,173 Bibles published; in 1933, there were 666,448; and in 1931, there were 1,376,680.

While the Bible business was soaring, fiction did a nose dive. In 1939, only 13,511,181 volumes of fiction were published, compared to 25,454,135 in 1937.

The Census Bureau doesn't try to explain things like this. It just hands you the figures. I'm not going to try either.

The Woolcott Sequel

This little note ought to be entitled: All the hicks don't come from the sticks.
 One of the White House switchboard operators was a little dazed recently when a voice said, "Gimme the clerk, I want to make a reservation for Miss Talulah Bankhead."

It happened this way: An advance agent for Miss Bankhead show, "The Little Foxes," popped out of the bushes the other day, and said to the switchboard operator, "I want to make a reservation for Miss Talulah Bankhead."

It happened this way: An advance agent for Miss Bankhead show, "The Little Foxes," popped out of the bushes the other day, and said to the switchboard operator, "I want to make a reservation for Miss Talulah Bankhead."

"Where," he asked, "are the members of your cast stopping?" The manager explained, so-and-so is at the Washington, and-so is at the Raleigh, and so on, and he concluded: "Mr. (Alexander) Woolcott is at the White House."

"How was I to know," the agent moaned later. "I just figured it was good enough for Woolcott, it ought to be all right for Talulah."

Aged Man Held On Sex Charge Of Abusing Child

There was another addition to the long list of arrests for sex crimes in Ulster county Monday, when Charles Weston, 72-year-old Highland man was arrested by Sergeant Hulse and B. C. I. Investigator Metzger, on a charge of carnal abuse of a child. Weston was arraigned before Justice Walter R. Saman, waived examination and was committed to the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Weston was arrested on a charge involving a six year old girl, the act complained of having, it is alleged, been committed in January. However, according to the officers, investigation brought charges involving at least half a dozen children of between six and 12 years of age, over a period of a couple of years. Weston is married, but is said to have been not at home at the various times in which these occurrences are reported to have taken place.

Fruit School Program To Be Held at Milton

The fruit committee of the Ulster County Farm Bureau is holding its second annual small fruits school on Thursday, March 20 at the Milton school. The program, which will begin promptly at 10 a. m. will feature three speakers from the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

Dr. O. H. Hammer, who is a research worker stationed at Poughkeepsie sub-station, will discuss the control of insect pests on currants, gooseberries, strawberries, raspberries and grapes. Dr. R. F. Suit, Disease specialist from Geneva will discuss the control of disease on these crops. Dr. G. L. Slate will discuss varieties of small fruits and soils and fertilizers for small fruits.

This program has been arranged in response to the demand on the part of fruit growers who feel that the various small fruit crops offer an excellent means of diversifying the fruit business. The committee invites all interested growers to attend.

Moser Asks $425 Damages in Court; Settlement Is Made

Settlement of the negligence action brought by Leo Moser against Howland Kinkade and William Grant in Supreme Court brought to the trial term to an unexpected halt and Justice Francis Bergan recessed the court until Wednesday at 10 o'clock. No court was held today when the Moser-Kinkade action was settled after being partially tried Monday afternoon.

Fowler & Fowler appeared for plaintiff and Francis Martocci appeared for the defendant.

Jurors will return Wednesday at 10 o'clock and the day calendar for Wednesday is No. 81, 17, 33, 40, 46, 11, 19, 87, 88, 93 and 63.

The grand jury was in session today but later will recess until March 24, when a final report will be made.

Leo Moser of Kingston has brought an action in Supreme Court against Howland Kinkade and William Grant to recover $425 for damages to his car and for medical attention to Mrs. Moser who was injured in a crash on December 31, 1939, at Foxhall avenue and Shufeldt street when his car and that of Mr. Kinkade, driven by Grant, crashed. Mr. Kinkade brings a counter claim for $80 for damages to his car.

N. Jansen Fowler with Judge Joseph M. Fowler of counsel appear for the plaintiff and Francis Martocci appears for the defendants. The trial was opened Monday afternoon before Justice Bergan and a jury. Jurors not on the case were excused until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Moser at the time of the accident was enroute to church about 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The Kinkade car had proceeded from Shufeldt street. On the Sunday morning of the crash the streets were slippery from snow and ice.

Plaintiff claims that as he proceeded along Foxhall avenue in a southerly direction on his side of the street the Buick of Kinkade came out from Shufeldt street and struck his car causing it to run over to the side of the road and crash in a pole at Grand street which is slightly south of the Shufeldt street intersection. He claims negligence on the part of Grant.

The defendant alleges that the car of Moser was being operated in a careless manner considering the condition of the streets and that Moser did not for some reason see the car of Grant until too close to stop and that he then applied his brakes causing his car to collide with the Buick which was standing still at the time. The Moser car then, according to the defendant, skidded some 75 to 100 feet and crashed into a pole at the junction of Grand street and Foxhall avenue. The defendant claims the plaintiff did not have his car under proper control.

Moser claims that Grant was negligent in that the Buick car he was driving came out of Shufeldt street and struck the rear of his car. He claims that Shufeldt street was a stop street at the time of the crash.

To Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Boy Scout Troop 10 committee of the Immaculate Conception Church will be held this evening at 7 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

East Indies Import a First Lady—From United States

By AP Feature Service

Baltimore, Md.—A Baltimore-born American is the first lady of the Dutch East Indies. She is the wife of the governor-general.

And as Japanese forces move into Indo-China, just 600 miles away from the Dutch archipelago, rich with oil, tin and rubber, Gov.-Gen. and Mrs. A. W. L. Tjaard van Starckenborgh-Stachouwer, find themselves in the spotlight of international affairs.

They reside in the classic, one-story Batavian palace. War already has touched their home. Their elder daughter, 22, was in Holland when the Germans invaded. The other, age 16, is at home.

It was at the time of that other war that they were wed. She was Christine (now it's Christina) Marburg, daughter of Theodore Marburg of Baltimore, former minister to Belgium. They had met in Belgium when she was a Bryn Mawr graduate. They were married in 1915 in Baltimore, when Starckenborgh was a young attaché to the Netherlands legation in Washington.

Like Mrs. Coolidge He has climbed up the diplomatic ladder, until now he is one of the first men of all The Netherlands empire. From London his exiled queen authorized her Indies viceroy to act on his own responsibility even to supervising Dutch diplomats of the world if necessary.

Christine Marburg has become a figure after four years in the Batavian palace. Philanthropy, rather than world politics, has become her interest. She speaks

Dutch like a native. She has a reputation for graciousness, poise and integrity—all traits that the Dutch like. In manner and appearance, people say she reminds them a great deal of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

The Dutch also like the simple but impressive way she has furnished the palace. And she has a reputation as a hostess.

A School Tale Her philanthropies have taken many forms. She strongly supports public health among the natives (there are 60,000,000 of them), especially among lepers. She's strong for native education, too. Once she saved an agriculture school for low-class Eurasian boys from closing.

Even the school's lone cow was to be sold to satisfy debts. The woman from Baltimore stepped in; donated the cow to the school, and started a program partly responsible for a government subsidy.

Will Leave Tokyo Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka will leave Tokyo tomorrow to confer with Axis leaders in Berlin and Rome, it was announced today as Thailand (Siam) and French Indo-China signed a treaty negotiated by Japan to end their border dispute.

The peace treaty, conclusion of which cleared the way for Matsuoka's departure, gave Thailand some, but not all, of the territories she had claimed in the Indo-China provinces of Cambodia and Laos.

Matsuoka's overland route to Berlin will take him through Moscow, but official Japanese sources declined to say whether he would pause in the Soviet Russian capital. There was some speculation he also might visit Vichy, temporary seat of the French government.

The Japanese press, meanwhile, viewed the United States Senate passage of a treaty putting the U. S. a step nearer war and said the possibilities for American pressure on Japan were increased.

One newspaper, Asahi, said "New York information" indicated the first step under the bill would be a deal whereby American destroyers would be traded for British capital ships which the U. S. can send to Far Eastern waters against Japan in order to aid (Chinese) Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek more aggressively.

One widely-read Japanese naval critic, Rear Admiral Kogoro Sekine, defined Japan's "co-prosperity sphere" in Asia to include India, Australia and the Philippines.

R. A. F. and Nazi raiders carried out tempestuous overnight attacks, with the British reporting they set large fires in the German Rhineland city of Cologne and bombed the docks of Boulogne, Cherbourg and Brest along the Nazi-held "invasion coast."

The Germans pounded the big Portsmouth naval base in a six-hour assault, in which a London communique noted that "buildings were damaged, fires started at several points and a number of people were killed."

London had four bombless alarms. Berlin acknowledged civilian casualties and damage to homes in western Germany, but claimed two British raiders were downed.

On the Albanian battlefield, the Greeks, struggling to take Tepelen, claimed they had seized more strong Italian positions and taken 300 more prisoners, adding to a bag of several thousand in four days' fierce fighting.

Italian counter-attacks, the Greeks said, were without "any success whatever."

Coley on Squad Schenectady—George R. Coley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Coley of Schenectady, is a candidate for a pitcher's position on the Union college varsity baseball team, it was announced today. Coley has been working out with the battery candidates for two weeks. The baseball squad will leave April 1 for a spring training trip south for the time in the athletic history of the college. Games have been arranged with Lehigh, Hofstra, Moravian and Westchester State Teachers.

strongly on the possibility there would be one. Since a message to Congress is developing, he asserted that "that might tell the whole story."

Asked whether any executive orders might be issued immediately after the aid bill becomes law, Early said he had not heard of any.

The secretary added that he was not able to throw any light on what materials or equipment might be transferred to England immediately.

Questioned about reports that price control would be centralized in the securities commission, with Leon Henderson appointed chairman of that agency, Early said he had heard nothing about that either. Henderson has been in charge of price matters with the defense commission.

Final congressional action on the aid legislation was expected about 2:30 or 3 p. m. (E.S.T.), when the House is scheduled to vote on the Senate amendments to the bill.

Plans for making the aid program immediately effective fell into these main categories:

First, immediate assistance in the form of small naval vessels, food supplies and various munitions which may be turned over to the British from existing United States Army and Navy equipment, total value of such equipment, the aid bill specifies, must not exceed $1,300,000,000.

Second, long-range assistance in the form of armaments yet to be manufactured and for which Mr. Roosevelt must ask Congress to make appropriations. The eventual cost of this phase of the program over the next three years has been placed by defense authorities at about $10,000,000,000.

Some members of Congress expressed belief that in his initial request for lease-lend funds the President might ask for most or all of this total, but others in touch with the White House indicated the request would be nearer $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000.

All Authority He Needs One of the latter said that the smaller sum, together with allocations of existing equipment, would give the President "all the authority and money he will need for some time."

The House procedure for completing congressional action on the lease-lend bill called for the two hours of debate to be divided equally between supporters and opponents of the legislation. Rep. Fish (R-N. Y.), who led the House opposition, said he favored the Senate amendments "because they will be helpful" and he predicted that between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of his fellow Republicans would join in approving them.

In a statement Fish also said that the President could achieve national unity if he used the powers of the bill "without jeopardizing the peace or national defense of America."

"The responsibility now rests on the administration," he declared, "and if we are taken into war it will be a president's war—not the people's."

Three Senate opponents of the bill—Senators Clark (D-Mo.), Nye (R-N. D.) and Taft (R-Ohio)—said that as measures appropriating money for the lease-lend program came to Congress there would be attempts to earmark funds for specific countries.

Nye also said that much would be heard of "what we are doing with our resources to aid England and what England is not doing with her own resources to aid herself."

After the war is over, he predicted, it will be disclosed that there were "a number of plutocrats in Britain whose fortunes were untouched by the war."

Saturday Is Final Day for Federal Tax

Saturday, March 15, is the last day that federal income taxes may be paid in Kingston, and Harry M. Hickey, collector of internal revenue of this district, emphasized today that taxpayers should have their returns in by that day.

At the local office of the Central Post Office building, it was stated that already many had called at the office and paid their income taxes.

The local office will remain open until midnight Saturday.

Crews Are Ready To Man Arms Coming From U.S.

London, March 11 (AP)—Great Britain has trained vast skeleton formations of fliers, sailors and soldiers to man immediately a great flood of airplanes, ships and guns expected from the United States, it was disclosed today.

A vast pool of manpower, well-informed neutral sources said, is ready to pour into battle as soon as the United States opens stores of equipment under the aid-to-Britain measure.

It was asserted that American military, naval and air experts have been working here more than four months in close cooperation with the British so the empire's forces can absorb American equipment quickly.

Neutral sources said: Britain's naval forces are prepared to man a mosquito boat fleet to patrol the channel against any invasion and use any additional destroyers for convoy and other purposes.

There is a huge reservoir of pilots trained in the use of American planes and ready to fly patrol bombers described as needed for "defense in depth of the Atlantic" against attacks on British shipping.

There are tank formations without tanks, machine-gunners without guns and rifle-men without rifles who are ready to be fitted into operating units as soon as they are equipped.

"It's lack of equipment that's been holding us back," a British source said.

The British have distributed available material among as many men as possible so that all could familiarize themselves with the use of weapons in training.

That is one reason why more American planes have not actually been used in combat, informed sources said.

These sources asserted "the British want a pool of reservists ready to handle the equipment they are building in increasing amounts themselves, and to be prepared for any sudden flood from any source."

Recent conscription measures provide for compulsory military service for men from 18 through 40 years old. There also has been a call for men from 41 to 55 to volunteer for home defense.

had dodged the first and been killed by the second.

After his death, the pathologist continued, the body was taken from the driver's seat of the automobile in which it was found and placed on the front floorboards.

Reuters also said that, according to a physician's testimony, death was caused by a bullet which entered the head behind the left ear and scarcely could have been a self-inflicted wound.

City Workers Who Use Own Cars Face Heavy Insurance

Employees Engaged in City Business Must Carry $25,000 to $50,000 Personal Liability

All city employees who use their own cars on the city's business will be required to take out liability insurance of from $25,000 to $50,000 personal liability and $3,000 property liability. Word to that effect is contained in a communication addressed to Mayor C. J. Heiselman to all heads of the various city departments.

The insurance is taken out as a protection to the city in case the driver of the car is involved in an accident.

The communication to the heads of the various departments has raised the question as to whether volunteer firemen who use their own cars in responding to a fire alarm will be required to take out coverage insurance.

After April 1 with the new fire alarm system in operation it is expected that many more volunteers will answer fire calls than under the present system.

The question that has been raised will likely be referred to the corporation counsel for an opinion. No volunteer fireman of course is now paid for his services in fighting fires, but the question is whether the city will be held liable if the volunteer is responding to an alarm in his own car is involved in an accident.

State Gets Heavy Snow As Planes, Ferries Suspend

Albany, N. Y., March 11 (AP)—Heavy wind-driven snow fell today in most of New York state after only a day's respite from a storm which deposited up to 16 inches, caused 12 deaths and impeded vehicular travel.

The weather bureau forecast continued precipitation through the night, with rising temperatures likely to bring sleet or rain in some sections.

Temperatures ranged from 25 to 32 degrees above zero as the snow moved in from the southwest around 4 a. m. By mid-morning Rochester reported 4½ inches, Binghamton 3½ inches and Buffalo and Albany three inches.

Snow plows and sand crews kept all roads passable, but state police advised against unnecessary travel in most sections.

American airlines cancelled all flights. Minor automobile accidents were reported.

Firemen Conquer Fire on Cornell Tugboat No. 20

Firemen wearing gas masks fought successfully a fire that had broken out shortly after 5 o'clock Monday evening in the hold of the Cornell Line tug, Cornell No. 20, as it lay berthed at the Cornell Shops on East Strand. The fire broke out in the hold over the fuel oil tanks.

In order to get at the fire it was necessary for several of the firemen to don the gas masks and descend to the tug's hold while other firemen battled the fire from the deck of the vessel.

Workmen had been busy overhauling the tug as it lay tied up at the dock at the shops. A bathroom shower had been installed in the tug, and the fire department expressed the opinion that hot lead used by the plumbers may have been the cause of the fire.

The fire had broken out in a small space, only a few inches in height, at the stern of the tug between the oil tanks and the deck. Fire burned through the double deck and it was necessary to tear up some of the decking in order to get at the fire.

The fire department responded to an alarm turned in from Box 2321, which is located in the shops. The firemen battled the fire for about two hours before it was extinguished.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy estimated that the damage would not prove heavy.

Shortly after 4 o'clock Monday afternoon the fire department responded to a still alarm for a fire under the porch of the house of Mrs. Dora Bash at 47 East Union street. The fire was confined to some refuse which had collected under the porch. The damage was slight.

Two persons who discovered the fire sent in two alarms simultaneously, one from Box 2121, at East Union and Chambers streets, and the other from Box 2131 at Hasbrouck avenue and Mill street.

dents were numerous. A Lake Ontario ferry was forced to suspend operations.

Schooling and Taste Displayed by Trio In Concert Monday

At the recital given by the Krauter Trio at the third in this season's Cooperative Concert Series, in the high school auditorium Monday evening, the artists, Karl and Phyllis Krauter and Willard MacGregor, performed the various numbers on the diversified program with a musicianship that displayed fine schooling and taste.

The program opened with the Arensky "Trio in D Minor" and included such numbers as the first movement from "Trio in B Flat" by Schubert, "Hungarian Dance No. 5" by Brahms, "Handel in the Strand" by Grainger and "Londonderry Air" by Kreisler, all played by the trio.

The cellist of the trio, Phyllis Krauter, and the pianist, Willard MacGregor, appeared as soloists on the program. Solos for cello were the "Toccata" by Frescobaldi, "Apres un Reve" by Faure, "Tarantelle" by Jeral, "Andante for Sonata" by Rachmaninoff, and "Danse du Diable Vert" by Casado.

Some of the audience were a little disconcerted by the physical movements of Miss Krauter but regardless of these motions, her head and playing most of the time with her eyes closed, her performances were thorough both in technical and interpretative detail.

In decided contrast was Willard MacGregor who played the piano with utter abandon and ease. His interpretations of "Waltz in A Flat" by Chopin and "Hungarian Rhapsody" No. 12 by Liszt, were manifested by accuracy and sparkling verve.

The outstanding performances of the evening were the Arensky trio played by the ensemble, the "Toccata" and "Apres un Reve" cello solos, the Chopin Waltz played by Mr. MacGregor and the Londonderry Air, played by the trio.

The playing of the "Handel in the Strand," an English clog dance arranged by Grainger, played by the trio, brought to a close this perfectly balanced mixture of inspiration, deep knowledge and ensemble which were received by every mark of approval. The piano a few times overpowered the delicate string passages but these occasions were rare enough not to offend the blended result.

As a closing encore the trio played "Waltz of the Flowers" which was a better closing theme than the dance clog. The last concert of the series will be April 7 with Helen Jepson, Metropolitan soprano, as the artist.

Mrs. Lewis also spoke of the fairly recent popularity of the Ballet in this country and of the rigorous training required of a ballet dancer. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Vernon Hull.

Young Two-Piece-Effect Dress

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9673

This engaging young frock has all the convenience of a one-piece dress, but that new lowered waistline gives a smart two-piece effect! It's a Marian Martin style, Pattern 9673, and as simple, vivacious and wearable as can be. A buttoning rows clear down the front for jaunty style as well as usefulness. The skirt has panels down the front and back to give slender lines below the hip-seaming, and long darts above the seams give smooth, trim, through-the-middle fit. Don't you love the gay scalloped collar—why not make it in crisp contrast? There are three sleeve versions—long, three-quarter or short—and you may use a belt. The small view shows how a contrasting skirt adds to the two-piece effect of this frock.

Pattern 9673 may be ordered only in misses' size 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

High Priced Economy

Indianola, Ia. — Frank Oldt probably will call a plumber next time without experimenting.

He poked his finger down a drain when the water wouldn't run out of the lavatory. The finger stuck.

A plumber saved off the drain pipe to no avail, finally smashed the bowl to pieces with a hammer. Cost to Oldt: Sore finger, $15 in plumber's fees, and the price of a new bowl.

"HEAD" AND "FOOT" OF TABLE PRESENT PROBLEM TO HOSTESS WHO IS GIVING DINNER FOR NEWLY ENGAGED PAIR

Even though it has been the accepted fact for generations that the man is head of the house, but his wife sits at the head of the table, I agree that a curiously puzzling reversal of this idea is suggested by a question just asked me. In short, the incongruity of the words head and foot in this one situation is one that I had never thought of before. It is of course amusing rather than important, and for that reason I am printing this letter:

"I'm giving a party of fourteen in a private dining room at one of our hotels for a newly engaged pair. You have written that engaged people are seated together. If this is so, where do my husband and I sit? How do I put him on my right and her on my husband's right—or don't I?"

The answer to this is that the young woman is seated in your husband's right and her fiancé on her right. You sit far away at the "head" of the table even though on this single exceptional occasion both guests of honor are seated at the foot. On every other occasion, excepting an anniversary dinner, the man guest of honor sits on the right of the hostess whose place is at the head.

An Erstwhile Beau

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a wonderful snapshot book that dates from way back up to the present. It's actually a diary in pictures. Several of the pictures have been ruined and I am writing to those who had the films for duplicates, or at least for others of the same period, which would do to take the place of the originals. But in one case the picture is of an old beau who lived out of town and whom I haven't seen for several years and who was married last year. Would it be out of place to write and ask him for a picture, and should I write this letter to his office or house?

Answer: If there was no particular sentiment either shown in, or attached to this picture, there should be nothing out of the way in your telling him why you would like another print of it and asking him to lend you the film. If you have not written to him since his engagement or marriage, you would of course send him a message of good wishes to himself and his wife and write to whichever address you are sure of. Either one would be equally proper.

Entertainment for an "At Home" Dear Mrs. Post: What is the typical entertainment for an at home four-to-six o'clock type of party?

Answer: Typically there is no entertainment. At a very big reception there is often music—either for dancing or just played softly as an accompaniment to conversation. At a musicale-tea, of course music is the feature of the afternoon. But this is the exception rather than the rule, and in your question you said "typical."

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Afternoon Tea." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Gay Victorian Footstool From Lowly Cake Boards

Doorstops Are the Legs

A delightful overstuffed footstool for your favorite chair! No one could suspect you'd made it with cake boards and doorknobs!

So perky it looks covered with flowered chintz and finished with a little frill. Or, if you'd rather be modern than Victorian, use black saten and fringe.

Glue between your two cake boards four wooden blocks—equal distances apart. Cover with a heavy weight when the glue gets tacky. Next morning, screw underneath the blocks four doorknobs for legs, and paint them to match your color scheme.

And now for the fun of stuffing and covering your footstool. Cut a fat circle of cotton batting the same size as the footstool and then a smaller circle and another still smaller. Place the smallest circle on the stool first, finish with the largest.

Next cover batting with a circle of fabric large enough to be tacked to the bottom board. Take up fullness with small pleats and tack down firmly, finishing with the pretty frill.

Exact details of making this charming footstool are described in our 32-page booklet. Also tells simple, inexpensive ways to make attractive screens, smocking sets, other decorative objects.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of DECORATIVE AND USEFUL OBJECTS EVERYONE CAN MAKE to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and NAME of booklet.

The Kingston rally will take the form of demonstrations of scout skill more than competitive events and will open with a program presented by Troop No. 12 and is expected to be a very interesting one. The grand entry of all the troops and their guests will be under the direction of Assistant Commissioner Ed Luedtke with each troop marching to its place on the floor with announcements by the announcer as to the troop and some interesting facts regarding it.

Following the opening ceremony and the review by the officials, the program will present the following: Ping pong relay, knot tying relay, fire by friction, flint and steel, Troop No. 6 will present several Indian ceremonial dances in full costume. These costumes are being made by the scouts themselves. Next is a stretcher race, crab race and then a demonstration of first aid by Troops Nos. 7, 11 and life-saving work by boys from all troops in the district under the direction of Ed Luedtke, assistant scoutmaster of Troop No. 6. Assistant District Commissioner C. Taylor and Steve Hyatt will have charge of the competitive events and the exhibitors. District Commissioner L. R. Rigby and his staff have planned an outstanding program and all the parents and friends of scouting are invited to attend. Ed Luedtke has planned an interesting closing ceremony.

Ranchester, Wyo. (AP)—Ranchester, just high school basketball team beat an opponent this season, 84 to 0, in a game cut to 24 minutes' playing time.

Hugh Casey, Dodgers' chubby right-hander, told the Brooklyn press after his first workout at the Havana camp that he will be a 20-game winner this year. Manager Leo Durocher told him he would get his chance to fulfill his proud boast, for he expected to use him as one of his starting hurlers. Last year, Casey was used mainly in relief. Hugh entered camp weighing 204. He says he'll weigh nine pounds while in Cuba. Hugh isn't complaining about being fined $100 by President Larry MacPhail due to being late in reporting. "I guess I had it coming," said the big fellow. "It was the first club order I ever broke and I have no alibi."

Terry Not Worried
Orlando, Fla. — Although the New York Giants haven't been hitting their hat sizes or winning exhibition games, Manager Bill Terry professes to be worried. He's quite enthusiastic about the pitching of Harry Gumbert and Bump Hadley. Terry points out that Gumbert looked especially good with Gabby Hartnett behind the plate. Gabby also has been helping Cliff Melton a lot.

Pasadena, Calif. — The first real gloom around the Chicago White Sox arrived with the news that John Rigney may be called into the army not later than May. Rigney is a potential 20-game winner and the Sox figure they have no chance to become pennant contenders without him.
Orlando, Fla. — Roger (Doc) Cramer, who is a cinch to become Washington's regular center fielder, finally is in camp and ready to begin workouts, but President Clark Griffith still is seeking Alejandro Carrasquel, missing pitcher. Hearing that Carrasquel still was in his Venezuelan home, Griffith announced he would fine the pitcher $100 and added "if he doesn't come here real soon, on an airplane, it will be $200."

Game Birds Released
Harrisburg, Pa., March 11 (AP) — More than 60,000 mature ring-necked pheasants and 20,000 bobwhite quail will soon be released in Pennsylvania hunting grounds, says Seth Gordon, director of the state game commission. Gordon said this would be the largest number of game birds ever stocked in the springtime and added that the commission had already released more than 65,000 rabbits as part of its restocking program.

Bloomington Wins Three
Captain Natalie Phillips' Bloomington Christian Endeavor softball team moved to within striking distance of Ponckhockie Monday evening by trimming Woodstock in three straight games. The scores were 4 to 3, 8 to 3 and 7 to 2. In Friday's games with Port Ewen, Ponckhockie must win at least two games to take undisputed possession of the C. E. leadership. If Port Ewen takes two games from the current leaders a tie will result, with Bloomington and Ponckhockie.
